ASKED ABOUT CLOTHES, SHE SAID: "DON'T BOTHER"

New York, Aug. 27.—Thirty days in the workhouse was meted out Saturday to Leona Schlutz, 23 years old, of Chicago, who says she has no home, when she was found guilty of defying the staid conventionalities of New York by walking Bronx streets without clothing and a lighted cigarette in her hand.

"Don't bother me," said Leona.

SALVAGING WRECK HERCULEAN TASK

SWIFT CURRENT OF THE HUMBER RIVER COVERS ZR-2 WRECKAGE WITH SAND DEPOSITS THAT WILL CAUSE TROUBLE MOVING RUINS.

Hull, England, Aug. 26.—Workmen engaged in salvaging the wreckage of the ill-fated ZR-2 from the turbid waters of the Humber, where it fell with its human freight on Tuesday evening, employed powerful cranes today to lift the skeleton of the airship. It was believed as soon as the twisted and tangled framework of the dirigible was raised it would be possible to recover the bodies of many of the men who died when the dreadnaught of the air collapsed and caught fire.

The work of lifting the wreckage was a herculean task, for, in addition to the great weight of the aluminum framework and the pendant gondolas carrying the driving machinery, the swift current of the river had already begun to cover the immersed ruins with deposits of sand. River men believed that the bodies of some of the victims of the disaster had been borne away by the tide of the river's current, and it was reported that fragments of the dirigible's covering fabric had been found ten miles up the river from the scene of the accident.

Official inquiry into the cause of the disaster will begin tomorrow morning at Howden, where the ZR-2 was stationed before she started on her last voyage. The United States will be represented by a naval attaché who will sit with the court. There seemed to be a general agreement that the accident was caused by the collapse of a longitudinal girder in the middle of the dirigible, but it was expected the experts would be able to determine with some degree of accuracy the reason for the tragedy when they had before them the metal parts of the huge airship.

It was expected that the coroner's inquest to be held today would be adjourned after formal identification of the three bodies which were recovered, and the issuance of permits for their removal. The adjournment it was reported, would be for several weeks at least.

The English law does not permit embalming until after the coroner's inquest, but, in deference to the wishes of the American authorities here, the bodies of Lieutenants Little and Esterly were embalmed a few hours after they were recovered.

The coroner stated this morning he did not believe many more bodies would be found until the wreck of the airship was raised and searched.

EX-SERVICE MAN STRUGGLES WITH REPTILE IN BED

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 27.—George W. Paul, of 1216 Hickman Road this city, fought the Germans overseas, but it remained for him to have the most exciting battle of his life right in his own home and in his own bed.

Paul went to bed as usual Thursday night only to awake after midnight with the sensation of something cold and clammy across his body. He opened his eyes, closed them again and tried to sleep. He was wide awake when he felt the creeping sensation a second time, and glancing down he saw a red-colored snake in coil across his breast. With a motion of his body he flung the snake from him, but the reptile clung to his arm and wound its body tightly about him. A mad fight ensued, which ended with the snake being hurled beneath the bed.

Paul turned the light on at this juncture and called members of the family to his room. The snake had coiled about the young man's shoes and the reptile again showed fight when Paul, reinforced by two men, attacked him with a broom and fire poker. The snake, was finally killed, measured three and a half feet when stretched across the floor.

In 1913 the German army cost 1085 marks per man, officers included. Today each soldier costs the government 50 marks.

Feet Shaddled Prisoner Escapes Through Window.

Calais, Me., Aug. 27.—Milton Hanley, escaped prisoner, must be given credit for his nerve.

Hanley was in custody of a sheriff. When the officer's attention was distracted for a moment Hanley made a spectacular jump through a car window at Harvey, N. B. Posses have so far found no trace of him. Hanley, who is 20 years old, had been convicted of breaking and entering a store at St. Stephen, N. B.
